Composer Notes

This “Gaelic Gospel Acclamation for Lent” may be sung at any mass during Lent. Verses for Ash Wednesday and the five Sundays of the three-year cycle of readings are included, as well as a verse for funeral masses when they occur during Lent.

The refrain may be sung during weekday masses with or without a verse. The first half of the refrain may be intoned by cantor or unison choir, and the verses may also be sung by either cantor or unison choir.

SATB choral parts are included for the refrain, and may be sung on the repeat after a verse to increase the sense of reaching a climax into the proclamation of the Gospel.

To keep the spirit of the Lenten season, the refrain may be sung at the end of the gospel, after the priest or deacon has said or sung, “The Gospel of the Lord.”

Guitar chords are given. If there is a melodic instrument, let it play the soprano line in the choir parts. A cello may play the melody down an octave, or double the tenor or bass line.
